Do I need an ID card?

Each insured will be sent an ID card with their Certificate of Insurance. You can contact MetLife if you need more ID cards or replacement cards.

Evidence of Insurability

Evidence of Insurability needs to be provided by:

- employees who do not enroll within 90 days of employment
- your eligible family members

Cost of Coverage

The cost of coverage for you and your family members is an amount based on the daily maximum you choose and your age as of December 1 on or preceding the date your coverage becomes effective. Each covered family member has his or her own cost based on the below factors.

Levels of Coverage

You can create a personalized plan by choosing from these levels or options of coverage.

Daily Benefit Amount options:

- $100 daily benefit option (minimum)
- $150 daily benefit option
- $200 daily benefit option
- $250 daily benefit option (maximum)

Total Lifetime Maximum options:

- 3 years (1,095 days)
- 5 years (1,825 days)

Nonforfeiture Coverage Option

- The Nonforfeiture feature is only available, as an option, if you design a custom plan. With this feature, if you stop paying premiums after three years, you keep a reduced level of benefits. The amount will be based on the greater of the total premiums you have paid, or 30 times your daily benefit amount.

Can I pay for coverage through payroll deductions?

You can pay for coverage through the following:

- you and your spouse or approved domestic partner can pay for your coverage through payroll deductions
- your eligible family members can be billed for their coverage quarterly, semi-annually, annually, or they can set up monthly deductions from their checking account.

When does my cost of coverage change?

Your premiums are based on the coverage level you choose and your age, as of the date your coverage becomes effective. Your premium may increase:

- if Long Term Care Insurance rates are adjusted on a class basis for all participants. These adjusted rates will be passed on to all participants
- if you buy additional coverage; your age as of the effective date of the increase will determine the price for the additional coverage

Will my cost for coverage increase as I get older?

Generally, your cost for coverage remains unchanged. However, if you elect the optional INFLATION protection feature, your cost for this increased coverage will be based on your age as of the effective date and reflects the additional cost associated with providing coverage to persons in your age category.

Are my premiums waived while I'm receiving benefits?

Yes, your premiums are waived for you while you are receiving benefits. Your premiums will start again the first day of the month on or following the date you are no longer certified as CHRONICALLY ILL.

You should contact MetLife regarding qualifying benefits.

Taxes

Do I pay with before-tax or after-tax dollars?

You make plan payments with after-tax dollars.

There is potential favorable federal income tax treatment of your Long Term Care Insurance premiums:

- a portion of your premium paid may be tax deductible. If your eligible premium, in conjunction with other medical expenses, exceeds 7.5% of your adjusted gross income and does not exceed dollar limits as specified by the IRS, it will be tax deductible if you itemize your taxes. There are caps on the amount that can be deducted, based on your age
- benefits you receive will generally not be considered taxable income, provided that they are within IRS limits or that amounts in excess of the IRS limits are used for medical care

When Coverage Starts

Coverage becomes effective the first of the month following acceptance into the Plan.

What happens if I'm not actively at work on the effective date?

If you are a MMC employee (other than Kroll) who enrolled without providing EVIDENCE OF INSURABILITY and you are not actively at work, or a Kroll employee and not in ACTIVE WORK STATUS, on the day your coverage is supposed to go into effect, your coverage will begin the first of the month following your return to work.

When can I change my coverage?

You can decrease your coverage any time during the year.

Evidence of Insurability is required to increase your coverage.

When Coverage Ends

What happens if I leave the Company?

If you leave the Company, you will have the option of continuing your coverage at your current premium rate. Upon termination, call MetLife to arrange for continuation of premium payments directly to MetLife.

What happens when I die?

If you die before age 65 and have benefits remaining, MetLife will return all of the premiums paid into the Plan, less any benefits you have received, to your estate.

If death occurs between ages 65 and 75, the amount your estate will receive will decline 10% each year, less any benefits received.

There will be no refund if you join the Plan after age 65 or if you die after age 75 because of the increased costs in providing coverage at and after age 65.

Note: The return of premium on death feature is not available to residents of Washington State. Residents of this state will have an enhanced respite care services benefit of 42 days per calendar year.

How the Plan Works

This plan helps pay for the care you or a covered family member require as a result of an illness, an accident, or age. This care may be needed for a lengthy period of time, either in your home or in a facility that provides long-term care.

In the event of a conflict among the terms in this Summary Plan Description and the Certificate of Coverage, the Certificate of Coverage will govern. You will receive a Certificate of Coverage from MetLife within 30 days after you are enrolled in the Plan.

What is long-term care?

Long-term care refers to the services and assistance you or a family member could need as a result of an illness, an accident, or age.

This care may be needed when someone becomes unable to care for himself or herself and requires help doing everyday activities like dressing, eating, bathing, continence, toileting and transferring. Just as it sounds, long-term care is about needing care for a lengthy period of time, either in your home or in a facility that provides long-term care services.

If I am on an authorized unpaid leave of absence or am disabled, does the Plan still provide a benefit?

You will be able to continue paying for your coverage, at your current premium, on a direct bill basis with MetLife. You should contact MetLife to see if you qualify to collect Long Term Care Benefits.

Can I name a beneficiary under this Plan?

No, you cannot name a beneficiary under this plan. If you die before age 75, MetLife will return all or a portion of your premiums paid into the plan (the amount depends on your age at death and amount of benefits received, if any) to your estate.

How do I or my covered family member qualify for benefits; is there a “waiting period”?

To qualify for benefits, you or your covered family member must be certified by a licensed health-care practitioner as being unable to perform at least two of the six Activities of Daily Living (bathing, continence, dressing, eating, toileting, transference) for a period (also known as the “waiting period”) of at least 90 days, or as requiring substantial protective supervision due to severe cognitive impairment.

When will I or my covered family members be qualified to receive long-term care?

You or your covered family member must be certified as CHRONICALLY ILL.

Can I choose where to receive my care?

Yes, you can choose where to receive care, in conjunction with your case manager.

Initial Care Planning Visit

Can I receive help in making my decisions on what kind of care to receive?

Yes. Independent CARE ADVISORS are available to meet with you and your family in your home or another location to explore care options and help you make decisions. Offered at no charge, this one-time service is initiated at your request after you qualify for benefits.

There is a limit of $250 for this visit. Residents of Texas will have a limit of $275 for this visit.

Care Management

What is the role of care management?

You need to contact MetLife to develop a plan of care when you require long-term care services. MetLife will monitor your care to make sure you are receiving the best care, in their judgment, to meet your needs.

You can also contact MetLife for a recommendation and approval of alternative benefits.

Do I have to use care management?

Yes, you need to contact MetLife to develop a plan of care when you require long-term care. MetLife will monitor your case to make sure you are receiving the best care, in their judgment, to meet your needs.

When do I need to contact MetLife regarding care management?

- adult day care—60% of the daily benefit selected
- Alzheimer's facility—100% of the daily benefit selected
- assisted living facility—100% of the daily benefit selected

For example, the lifetime maximum benefit for a $200 daily benefit option for five years would be $365,000 ($200 X 1,825).

Some services have specific limits or restrictions.

Some services are not covered (these are called exclusions).

Does the Plan cover organic and inorganic brain diseases?

The Plan covers disabilities resulting from organic brain diseases, including Alzheimer's disease and similar disorders. The Plan also covers dependencies resulting from brain diseases which are organically based, as long as the insured meets the benefit eligibility criteria. MetLife does not attempt to identify the cause of disability or mental disorder.

Are benefits provided outside the United States?

International coverage is available through the International Coverage Certificate Rider to U.S. salaried employees who are living or working outside the United States.

The daily benefit amount will be referred to as a "per diem benefit." The per diem benefit amount will be equal to 50% of the home care benefit and will be paid whether or not services are received once the insured has been deemed eligible for benefits and the "waiting period" as defined under "How the Plan Works" has been fulfilled. The per diem benefit will be paid in United States dollars.

For New York residents, the following applies: you will never receive less than $25 per day. If you provide evidence of confinement in a licensed nursing home, the minimum amount paid will be $50. The per diem benefit will be paid up to a maximum of six years while you are outside of the United States.

For non-New York residents: This benefit will be paid to a maximum of 10 years while the insured is outside of the United States.

Is there an automatic inflation protection feature?

No, there is no automatic inflation protection feature. Rather, an optional inflation protection feature is offered in connection with this coverage.

Does this Plan adjust for inflation?

To keep up with inflation, the Long Term Care Insurance Plan offers the opportunity to upgrade your daily benefit amount to protect against future increases in the cost of long-term care. This option is offered every three plan years.

When your daily benefit increases, your lifetime benefit will also increase. The amount of daily benefit increase will be approximately 5% compounded annually.

Your premium for the increase will be based on your age as of the effective date of the increase.

Am I always offered optional inflation protection?

The offering is guaranteed as long as the option has been selected once every two offerings. If you don't choose this option for two consecutive offerings, it will continue to be offered; however you must provide EVIDENCE OF INSURABILITY.

The offer is made regardless of age, claim status, claim history, or length of participation in the Plan.

Do I have a Nonforfeiture option?

The Nonforfeiture feature is only available, as an option, if you design a custom plan.

With this feature, if you stop paying premiums after three years, you keep a reduced level of benefits. The amount will be based on the greater of the total premiums you have paid, or 30 times your daily benefit amount.

Can I receive a discount on services?

There is no discount program. However, case managers often negotiate lower fees from physicians, facilities, equipment suppliers, etc. on behalf of a patient.

What is transition expense benefit?

The Plan's transition expense benefit provides a one-time payment up to five times the daily benefit amount to be used for long-term care purposes, such as a personal emergency response system, caregiver training, durable medical equipment, or offsetting costs of qualified services received during the "waiting period" in which you or a covered family member were being qualified for benefits as described under "How the Plan Works".

It is payable after completion of the waiting period. To access this benefit, proof of payment for a covered expense must be submitted to MetLife. It does not reduce the total lifetime benefit.

What Is Not Covered

Are there any Exclusions under this Plan?

Alternate plan of service provision

What if the service I want is not covered?

This Plan has an “Alternate plan of service provision.” This provision means that a MetLife care manager can authorize benefits for qualified long-term care services not specifically covered under the Plan. Services must be qualified, must meet the needs of the covered person, and be a cost effective alternative.

Filing a Claim

How do I file a claim?

You or your covered family member file a claim by calling MetLife. The claim needs to be filed within 90 days of the date care is received.

You or your covered family member will speak with a care manager who is a registered nurse who will obtain the necessary information to make a decision regarding benefits eligibility. You or your covered family member will be notified of the decision within 10 business days of receipt of all the necessary information.

In some cases, the care manager may also contact a representative or others who may have relevant information about your or your covered family member's condition. In the event that necessary information is not available through these channels, MetLife may arrange an onsite visit at its own expense.

You need to contact MetLife to develop a plan of care.

How do I appeal a benefit determination or denied claim?
